

Goals of the Journal

The Journal Madagascar Conservation & Development publishes manuscripts that deal largely or exclusively with conservation and/or development in Madagascar.

The aims of the journal are:

- 1) to provide a forum for exchange of information about all aspects of conservation and development work in Madagascar, and
- 2) to alert interested people to particular threats to nature and culture as they arise.

MCD is a peer-reviewed journal distributed free-of-charge to all interested persons and institutions and will be politically neutral. As soon as donations are sufficient to meet the need, the policy of free distribution will start. Manuscripts should be sent to the editors by e-mail. Madagascar Conservation & Development welcomes the results of original research, field surveys, advances in field and laboratory techniques, book reviews, and informal status reports from research, conservation, development and management programs and in-field projects in Madagascar. In addition, notes on changes in the legal status of any species existing in Madagascar, public awareness programs, the availability of new educational materials (include the name and address of distributor and cost, if applicable), job announcements (paid or volunteer), and notification of newly published scientific papers, technical reports and academic theses are all appropriate contributions. Readers are also encouraged to alert Madagascar Conservation & Development to pertinent letter-writing campaigns and other activities, which may need the support of the Madagascar Conservation & Development community.

Finally, Madagascar Conservation & Development serves as a conduit for debate and discussion and welcomes contributions on any aspect of the legal or scientific status of any species living in Madagascar, or on conservation and development philosophy.
